National guidelines for open science

Covers six prioritized areas, to be fully developed in Sweden:

- Open access to scholarly publications
- Open access to research data
- Open research methods
- Open educational resources
- Public engagement in science
- Infrastructures supporting open science

Open educational resources

Goals and priorties:

- Policies and guidance for the production and use of OERs
- OERs and their metadata are shared with open licences and, to the greatest extent possible, in accordance with FAIR principles, with the aim of promoting dissemination and reuse
- Work on OERs at universities to be coordinated
- Need for and prerequisites for a common platform for collecting and disseminating OERs to be investigated

Färdplan för öppen vetenskap (reviderad)

1. Inledning

Den nationella färdplanen för öppen vetenskap[1] antogs av Sveriges universitets- och högskoleförbunds (SUHF) förbundsförsamling den 10 mars 2021. Mindre revisioner har gjorts i juni 2022 och i januari 2024. Den senaste revideringen har beslutats av SUHF:s presidium den 1 februari 2024.

Goal for HEIs in Sweden:

"To actively work towards creating a culture of sharing regarding educational resources by encouraging and promoting the creation, sharing, and use of open educational resources."

Roadmap - HEIs should:

1. Begin in 2024 the work to provide relevant support functions, services, and infrastructure regarding OERs, in a resource-efficient manner that can meet the needs of teachers and students.
2. By 2025 at the latest, develop goals, strategies, and guidelines for OERs.
3. By 2025 at the latest, start educating and informing on how open licenses can enhance teachers' and students' ability to control and manage copyright protection for educational resources.
4. By 2025 at the latest, begin providing resources for the creation and sharing of OERs, for example, through teachers’ workload planning or by offering project funding.
5. By the end of 2026 at the latest, implement an incentive structure that promotes and values work with OERs, for example, in merit assessment.
6. Actively collaborate with other HEIs and stakeholders, both nationally and internationally, in the work with OERs.

In the Library of Open Educational Resources, you can search for and share open educational resources (OER) from all levels of education. The service and its OERs are available for use by teachers, learners of all ages and everyone interested in learning. The OERs can also be found in Finna.fi, which gathers materials from museums, libraries and archives under one roof. The aoe.fi service is owned by the Finnish National Agency for Education, which develops the service in collaboration with its partners. Visit the Further information page for more info and see our guide for uploading OERs.
